THE WINTER SUITS

(By Rita Stuyvenant)

The newest winter suits allow great choice to the wearer. For this season there is no set rule, either as to the length of coat, lines that it may assume, or the accompanying skirt. There is a model to "suit every figure," and nearly all colors and materials are being shown.

Devot to fashion in dark-brown with slims for ladies an unusually smart suit for winter days. The far is used on a shaped band at the bottom of the coat, which, by the way, has a slight flare and is of hip length. The sleeves flare slightly and are called deeply with the style, and the collar, too, is of an attractive cut. The coat is fashioned diagonally, with three large buttons. There is nothing particularly noticeable about the skirt, except that it is narrow and a little longer than we have been seeing.

A box suit for the youthful figure is cut from grey-blue duxton and is trimmed with grey squirrel fur. Ruffled sleeves are likewise finished with the squirrel, and there is a collar of the fur that adds warmth. The skirt is made in one-piece, fastening in the back.

Little green dresses is the favored fabric for a stunning tuxedo and it is trimmed with wool embroidery. The jacket falls a little below the hips and is made with soft draped collar that buttons up about the throat. A slim suit of the material confines the fullness at the normal waistline, and the sleeves are inclined to flare. The wool embroidery is as a border on the bottom of the coat, sleeves and even the collar is touched by the wool work.

Pretty colored gabardine combines with brown head in a smart walking suit. Long roll revers face the coat, and the sleeves, unlike those of this season, are long and tight-fitted. The jacket is outlined several times on the breast. In this one wears a skirt that is short and dress prettily.

THE POOR LITTLE PRINCE

Part Fifteen

Somehow little Prince Philip did not seem one bit afraid when he was brought before the three wicked sisters. He took good care not to look at them, for he knew that if he did before he started his story he would be turned to a sea serpent. Tingles didn't mind looking at them, for he was a magic dog, and they had no power over him. What beautiful creatures they were, thought the dog; they did not look a bit like the wicked persons they were. They were fair and women of course, having the head and shoulders of beautiful maidens and the bodies of fish. Their faces were quite pretty and their long hair hung in beautiful tresses all about their shoulders.

The Story of the Sea-Lizard
"Once upon a time there was a little wizard who lived in the best of the sea. With his mother and brothers and sisters. But one day the little wizard wandered away from home and found himself at the top of the water. He was soon carried by great waves to a shore, where he was tried by the little boy, picked up, put into a bottle and wandered away from home and found himself at the top of the water.

"Now, the little boy who had found the lizard, lived a great distance from his home and he was tried by the little boy, picked up, put into a bottle and wandered away from home and found himself at the top of the water.

"What a sea-lizard! No sooner had the little boy got him home than he put him in a dark cellar in a pair of water. What a fate for a little creature of the big wide sea. How he wished he hadn't left his mother and brothers and sisters. What was that? Why, Thursday! The next Thursday was his birthday, and here he was miles and miles away from his home at the bottom of the sea. His poor mother would be grief-stricken, he knew, and preparations would be stopped for the great birthday party that had been planned. As the little sea-lizard thought of these things his heart nearly burst with grief. What a disaster, to be shut up in a stuffy pair of water! And here the prince stopped his story to look about.

A sob sounded from one of the sisters. It was the sister who delighted in being made to cry. Her tender heart had been quite touched by the story of the little sea-lizard, and tears were flowing down her cheeks. So far the story had been successful—now to make one of the other two sisters find a problem to work out and to cause the other sister to laugh.

Bobbie and His Pa

(By William F. Kirk)

I was looking at a family moving box that had only been in the house one month and they were moving. Pa, I said, why does our family move all the time and we never move? Aint we as smart as them?

On the other hand, said Pa, we are too smart to move, said Pa. The more popular, the more they have to move, said Pa. Smart people get the dirt of place they like, not Pa, then they stay there until they are moved.

But Mister Homer was smart, I said. He was a tramp who kept moving all the time. Our teacher said so, I told Pa.

Mister Homer didn't move because he had to move, said Pa. He was something like me in a good many respects, said Pa. He had the heart of a Gypsy, Pa said. For years I lived about the same way Mister Homer did, moving about from city to city. There wasn't much difference, except in this.

ROB AND GUN IN CANADA

The November issue of "Rob and Gun in Canada" is a splendid specimen of the Dominion with its resplendent cover painting showing a picture of the famous scene of the natural colors. The many interesting stories and articles in this issue include a splendid detective story entitled "Twenty-six Grains of Ballistic" and one of the most effective kind. In fact, the present policy among most nations is towards raising their tariff walls, not lowering them. In the face of these facts it would be suicidal for Canada to do exactly the reverse and discard the fiscal system which has been responsible for its progress during the past forty-three years.

Free Trade would mean death to Canadian industry. It would also result in the immediate closing down of Canadian plants of foreign firms, with consequent unemployment. There are to-day 650 American factories alone in Canada. Similar proposed ventures would be abandoned. New capital would refuse to come.

time when he lived, said Pa.

There was a great deal of difference, said Pa. Homer was the father of poetry, and Ma, you aint even a poor relation, said Pa. Well you are even coming yourself with those poor relations, said Ma.

You mean immediate, said Pa. I also mean that I tried of hearing you was a little bubble at if you was a grate and shining light, said Ma. If you think it is funny, it seems to me that I should sit over that bubble, said Ma.

The only trouble is that you don't appreciate my genius, said Pa. Homer's wife was his helper, said Pa. The bubble is a little bubble, said Ma.

I don't know about that, said Ma, but I do know that you are not doing the right thing when you sit over the bubble, said Ma. I am listening to little bubble about how smart you are & the grate things which you did, said Ma. Well bubble grows up he is likely to be a blowhard, too, said Ma.

Well, I declare, said Pa. Do I hear you with my ears?

I suppose you do, said Ma.

I never thought I was the one who wife would call me a blowhard, said Ma.

You never know what will happen in this case, said Ma.

I can think of a lot of cut-throat things to say in reply, said Pa, but I will set a seal on my lips, said Pa.

That is good news, said Ma.

I mean it, said Pa.

I certainly hope you mean it, said Ma.

Pa didn't say no more, he went & put a cigar & smoked & smoked. When I arose up I was just as soon set a seal on my lips if I can have a good cigar to smoke.

MAKING A WIFE USEFUL

The wife of the great botanist: beamed at him across the supper table. "But that is not the point," said the wife of the dish of mushrooms that had been set before her, "but not all for me, Aristotle, are they?"

"Yes, Mabel," he nodded, "I particularly for you with my own hands."

She beamed upon him gratefully. What a husband, unassuming and so sweet! In five minutes she had demolished the lot.

At breakfast the next morning he greeted her anxiously. "Sleep all night?" he inquired.

"Splendidly," she smiled.

"Not sick at all—no pains?" he pressed.

"Why, of course not, Aristotle," she responded.

"Hurry then," he exclaimed. "I have discovered another species of mushroom that isn't poisonous."

THE PUMPKIN

O, greenly and fair in the lands of the sun,

The vines of the ground and the rich melon run,

And the neck and the tree and the tree of the cello unfold,

With broad leaves all greenness and blossoms all gold.

Like that which ever Nineveh's prophet

When he stood on the wall of the city

While he waited to know that his warning was true,

And longer for the storm cloud, and listened in vain

For the rush of the whirlwind and red fire.

On the banks of the Nile, the dark

Spanish maiden

Comes up with the fruit of the tangled vine laden;

And the Creole of Cuba laughs out to behold

Through orange-leaves shining the broad spheres of gold;

Yet with dearest delight from his home in the North.

On the fields of his harvest the Yankee looks forth

Where crows are cooing and yellow fruit shines.

THE LAND OF HEART'S DESIRE

It's a long, long, weary journey, there are thorns on every side. Oft we think we've reached the portal. Think we see the gates wide; but just when our hopes are highest. When it seems within our reach, the gates close slowly closing. "Now," says Life, "you let me teach."

Money can't secure our passage. Love can't swing the gates aside. Though, indeed, he's very precious. There's a mischief thing called Pride. Who oft passes Love's poor fingers just as she the clasps would reach; "Now," says Life, "Pride's made you drop."

Start afresh and let me teach. "Let me teach you to be humble. There's something more than self. Something more than mere possession. Something more than Fame or Wealth."

Faith and Hope and Love are waiting. Let them take you by the hand. They will lead you slow but sure. To that long desired land.

So they lead us in Life's Journey, Hope, the lovely "guiding star," Faith who holds us to the message. She can see the "gates ajar," Prayer who keeps us linked together. Always holding us "Look higher. These three safely in will bring us To the Land of Heart's Desire."

The British government, which holds the royalties of Clonagh gold mines, near Delgoly, is, it is interesting to learn, making arrangements to reopen the works where, a few years ago, 400 men were engaged. The Clonagh mines are perhaps the oldest in the country. The early Britons worked them for gold to be made into torques, wreaths, or amulets; the Romans delved here for the precious metal; and centuries later the monks of Cymer Abbey acquired all the mineral rights. Charles I. could never have withstood the enormous expense of contesting the Great Rebellion had 105,000 rubles in Moscow just now as reports indicate, probably one would have to spend about a million rubles in order to get a complete past three; calculating, that is to say, on a price parallel to the average one at a first-class restaurant in Canada. It seems doubtful, therefore, whether a Russian ever carries in his pocket the price of more than one square mile.

INTERNAL BATHS CHECK DEADLY EFFECTS OF HARDENING OF ARTERIES

High blood pressure, meaning hardening of the arteries and heart disease, is a condition which frequently becomes dangerous after the age of forty. As is well known, the blood pressure is regulated by the state of the arteries. Hence it should be our aim to keep our arteries as young as possible.

The best means of reducing blood pressure and preventing hardening of the arteries lies in taking sufficient outdoor exercise in a cool, dry, open system well regulated. Constipation must not be permitted to exert its harmful effects. It is the cause of auto-intoxication (or self-poisoning), with many attendant ills—headaches, biliousness, lack of energy, sleeplessness and indigestion.

The one means of effectually reducing the heat of these ailments is the internal bath. Pure warm water, applied with the J. B. L. Cascade, cleanses and purifies the intestinal tract and removes the poisonous waste which accumulates there. The use of medicines for constipation is harmful. The J. B. L. Cascade will be shown and explained to you by A. D. Ferguson, Druggist, Macleod, Alta., who will also give you free on request an interesting booklet on Dr. Charles A. Taylor's "Why Man of Today is Old 50 Per Cent. Efficient." Booklet or information also obtainable at Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 165 College Street, Toronto.

THE DEATHLESS ARMY

Here! the strange sound—drummings of many feet—
Ye, a mighty host is passing by—
Ghastly and spectral, they're marching down the street,
Baiting with one accord, their ever hopeful prey:

"We cannot sleep till where poppies grow,
Far, far from home beneath a foreign sky;
We leave our crosses standing row by row
To sound to all our deathless laundry."

"No more we hear the hollowing canons' roar
Of the halting of machine guns' hellish fire—
No more the wild and dark bargains lower—
Nor into hells of death to cut the wire."

"Our trenches now are not for wartime teams
That run with water, mixed with filth and blood—
But a trench of peace where we dream our dreams
Of the future peace with all its brotherhood."

"We are warriors of Yore's bloody fight;
We're heroes from that 'do' in Courcette;
Along the Somme we let them have it right,
And we're back to tell the world we can't forget."

"We did our best at Amiens, you see!
At Passchendaele in pluck we didn't lack—
The hell we raised at Mons is with us yet,
On this day, dear friends, we're coming back."

"A deathless army we, in spectral train,
Leaving with our message as we go:
We cannot rest till peace forever reigns
In Flanders' fields where scarlet poppies grow."

Nov. 11, 1921.

To raise the necessary finance, let every boy have a programme and attend the concert (Monday, Nov. 14, in the Town Hall, at 8 p.m.). They only cost the small sum of 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. Deputy Bandmaster Robinson from Lethbridge will render a cornet solo. Let's make it a success. We will interest you. Do not fail to see the illuminating clip reprinted. We expect a good turnout.

Mrs. Ker Seymour's Second Recital

The second practice recital of Mrs. Ker Seymour was given in the Oldfield Hall on Saturday, Nov. 10th. Mrs. Seymour delivered an able address on "Sacred Music," tracing its roots from Biblical days to the time of Luther, and the pupils of her class in illustration of the subject rendered well known favorite hymns.

Mrs. Seymour's recital displayed an intimate knowledge of the subject chosen and was thoroughly enjoyed by her audience, all of whom felt that she is to be congratulated on the progress of her pupils and on the excellence of the recital.

Mrs. F. N. Morris contributed to the programme, singing "The Prayer Perfect." This was sung most pleasantly and with great expression.

"The Development of Sacred Music and Stories of Favorite Hymns."

1. Child's hymn, Piano, Fred Seymour; vocal, Gladys Cooney.
2. "Hail, Hail, the King of Kings," of My Soul; "Lead Kindly Light," Piano, Gladys Cooney; vocal, Gladys Cooney.

"FRENCH LEAVE" WILL BE SEEN AT THE EMPRESS ON NOVEMBER 20th

"French Leave," the funniest play in England, which opened in London, the greatest critics on the first night of its production and has since been playing to crowded houses nightly at the Globe theatre, has been secured for Canadian production by Trans-Canada theatres, Ltd., as a successor to that other hilarious English comedy, "The Better 'Oles," in which Mr. and Mrs. Coburn played to America's delight during two seasons. The daring and irresistible plots of "Mlle. Juliette," the superb old Brigadier-General Archibald Ross will be in capable hands. Reginald Berkeley, the author, who jumped into fame as a humorist, with the production of "French Leave," has created for theatre-goers an evening full of surprise, unexpected wit, the unexpected, and grotesquely funny situations. "Mlle. Juliette," supposedly a beguiled French lady, charms a French and pompous general into an absurd catastrophe to ruin a love affair for her jealous husband. When she tries to meet her husband secretly she scandalizes half a dozen adoring slaves and involves them in her daring escapades. She acts so impulsively that no one can be sure of her next step, and at the end there is a snap and a twist that throws every one into confusion. All the characters are continually getting themselves and each other into trouble. St. John Ervine, the author of "Jane Cleeg," predicts that on account of its never ending surprises "French Leave" will be running a year hence.

THE EMPRESS

THE MAGAZINES ARE DOING THEIR bit in the uplift of the movies. "Saturday Evening Post" furnished the story, "Two Weeks With Pay," by Nina West Patterson, for Bebe Daniels' latest production, which, the English illustrator, by a special arrangement, with "Vanity Fair," which is her American publisher, contributed the illustrated titles for the film.

The combination of Daniels plus Putnam plus Fish, plus a capable cast, and Maurice Campbell as the director, promises a treat to lovers of comedy.

"Two Weeks With Pay" comes for a two-week run at the Empress theatre on Friday night.

Bert Lytell in "A Message From Mars" Commencing Reality and Romance

Enter Bert Lytell—this time in "A Message From Mars," the Maxwell Karger production made for Metro, a screen adaptation from the successful stage play by Richard Guthrie. This picture, which is being shown at the Theatre on Monday and will run for two days as the feature attraction.

Another to be well liked, but Bert Lytell has the charming personality which makes him a star. His versatile gifts will make the picture again in the expectation and "it" will be a production not disappointed—seeing this pre-eminent actor in a role that permits him to do brilliant impersonation.

The story itself is brilliant and filled with the fantastic and sufficient measure to insure the attention of the audience without a pause. The mixture of romance and reality so make it a really exceptional picture. Briefly it concerns Horace Parker, a wealthy young Englishman, who is so wrapped up in himself that he ignores the world revolves around him and that he is a minor god. A series of lessons at the hands of a messenger from Mars, despatched to haunt the most selfish man on earth and to regenerate him, is effected, soon takes the self-esteem out of him, and he returns the love of the girl he lost.

The scenario was done by Arthur Bartlett and Arthur Maude. Arthur Bartlett turned the crank, and M. P. Staulcup designed and executed the set interiors. The supporting cast includes Raye Dawn, Madal Milton, Alphonse Ehler, Gordon Ash, Leonard May, Louis Beaton, Frank Currier and George Spink.

CHAMPION WOMAN DIVER TO BE SEEN HERE!

Followers of aquatic sports are promised something out of the ordinary in midsummer swimming carnival scenes which are a feature of "Two Weeks With Pay," the Bebe Daniels picture which opens at the Empress Theatre for two days beginning Friday.

For special diving "shots" were arranged that show to perfection the difficult art of leaping off a 35-foot platform. In addition to the feats of Bebe Daniels, here an expert swimmer, and diver, Alfie Allen, national woman champion diver, gives a series of exhibitions of the same Allen went to Belgium with the Olympic team and gained new honors.

Artificial silk is now being made from alcohol. This of buying the stuff by the yard!

WHO WAS SHE?

A beautiful but mud-spattered and generally disheveled young woman, registered at a summer resort hotel. Her mud-stained clothes were expensive and modish, her manner was shy and nervous. She asked the hotel register, but everybody from the clerk at the desk to the last guest at the hotel was absolutely positive that the mysterious stranger was none other than Marie L. Troy, the famous movie actress, trying to steal a little vacation ineognito.

That is the situation that starts the fun going in "Two Weeks With Pay," the Bebe Daniels picture with Bebe Daniels starring, which will be the feature at the Empress Friday and Saturday. Jack Macleod and Walter Hiers play supporting roles.

OBITUARY

On Monday last the death occurred of James Beatty of Macleod at the age of 72 years. The deceased gentleman was one of the old timers of Macleod. He was married for many years and engaged in farming on a very extensive scale a few miles south of Macleod. He was a member of the P. R. and was in charge of the construction work for that company when they first came into Macleod. He is survived by his wife, three sons and four daughters. He was a well known and respected throughout the whole district, and his wife and family will have the sympathy of all the surrounding country in their bereavement.

MILITARY BALL WAS A HUGE SUCCESS

The military ball held on Thanks-giving eve at the Veterans hall, was a great success. The dance was really given in honor of Armistice anniversary which occurs on the 11th November. The hall, which was very tastefully decorated with the military decorations, was artistically arranged by Messrs. Whiteford, McLeod and Macleod. It is a splendid program was arranged and the printing of same was executed by T. Whitford. He deserves the highest commendations for his efforts. The card was headed with the G.W.V.A. crest in scroll work, also spandrel cartoons "Come to the Cookhouse Door." The numbers were led by J. Ryan who is very neatly inscribed, the whole forming a work of art. The orchestra, which was led by J. Ryan, also to be commended on the special program of music supplied for this occasion, included in their efforts and work in scores. When the dance was in full swing it presented a beautiful and magnificent sight. The band, and the Cavalry, Artillery, Infantry and Air Corps in full dress regalia, also servants, corporals and privates in uniforms pressed and cleaned like new and buttons polished to the limit; the officers in evening dress and hats, not least those of the fair sex, arrayed in gorgeous gowns and hats, the latest of American and British creations. It is undoubtedly one of the best dances that has ever been given in Macleod, and the committee of the G.W.V.A. are to be heartily commended for their efforts and work put forth to make this ball the magnificent success that it was.

MACLEOD METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. G. D. Armstrong, R.A., Minister of the church, will be held next Sunday. The morning subject will be "Making Things Happen." Evening subject, "The Church in the Mist of Life."

There will be special music and the new Methodist hymnal will be used here for the first time at next Sunday service.

The men of the congregation are busy making preparation for their chicken pie supper to be given Wednesday, Nov. 16th, in the Church Hall. Changes have been made in the church hall, and by experience gained in the past, the men are determined to make this annual supper "the best yet."

There will be a District Institute of the Macleod District for the discussion of various phases of religious life and work held in the church Tuesday, Nov. 15th, at 2 p.m.

These discussions are open to the public and are a very cordial invitation is extended to all who would have to attend these meetings.

Unbrilliant numbering 20,000 were left in the Paris Underground rail way last year?

Macleod War Memorial Committee Asks For Important Information

Below is a list made from such records as we have on hand of those who were killed in action and died of wounds in the Great War, 1914-18. As we are very anxious to get a complete list of names as soon as possible in connection with the proposed war memorial, we anyone who knows of someone who should be included in this list or any name that is on the list and should be there, please drop a line to the committee.

Just War Memorial Committee.

We wish to have a memorial erected this year, and subscription lists will be started immediately to raise the necessary $1000 needed to complete the fund, and we have no doubt that the people of Macleod and district will be generous as far as lies in their power financially so that we may have a memorial to the war.

MOTOR KINDNESSES

All pretentious pedestrians must be more or less interested in the attitude of motorists toward those who walk and Tom and I found it a matter of particular interest when, returning from a holiday trip by a late train, we alighted at our suburban car and each walked wearily on our feet, as we would for a long wait. I myself having seldom been offered a "lift" paid little attention to the motorist's attitude, but Tom soon noticed one that stopped across from us, and when we had responded to the hostile gesture of its occupants and climbed in, we were ready to give the motorist the thumbs-up, as we were so deep in our own dream, and we went to sleep that night filled with all kindly thoughts of our fellow men.

Within a few hours we were picked up again, by the former motorist, and I said to Tom: "It's very nice, having you on the road. This never happens to me when I'm alone. I suppose men can't offer rides to women who are on the street alone and—well, I don't know, there are many women drivers cars, but no strange women are ever given me a lift. It seems as if women's motorist's rule is more about it as men, doesn't it?"

I seemed doubtful, however, to have my attitude towards humanity softened and mellowed within twenty-four hours, for in less than that time the two of us were picked up once more, and this time by a woman. She drove a rather ramshackle car and her hair streamed out in wisps under a battered head-dress, but her voice was charming and her manner full of the fire of hospitality.

"Well, people are nice," I whispered when we got out, adding, with an effort to conceal the note of triumph, "women, too."

I have been told that in some places motorists put a small sign on their windshields (a uniform sign is adopted by all), asking some such pertinent question as "Are you going my way?" and inviting the wayfarer to "jump in." This is surely the sort of good will and kindness. It seems to me that such a spirit was more prevalent in some parts of the country than in others, showing that kindness and courtesy are not unknown. It is well worth while to start the new year in one's own neighborhood.

My Secrets Of Charm

(By Marilyn Miller)

There is perhaps no problem so difficult to solve, despite the innumerable cranks advertised, as that of obesity.

The stout woman will appreciate this, as she has undoubtedly tried everything offered to take off those extra fifteen or twenty pounds that make her figure so mature and render shopping for new frocks such a disagreeable task.

There have been discovered during the last decade, however, many scientific facts concerning the superfluous weight, that tend to throw a different light on the subject of treatment. First of all, the causes must be found.

There is the matter of diet to be taken into consideration. Science has proven that starches and carbohydrates taken too freely will result in obesity. That means that potatoes, rice, wheat bread, cornstarch puddings, ice cream, candies, heavy pastries and sweets in many varieties must be omitted. It would be folly to advise the stout woman to omit all of these, because if the system is to function properly it must be nourished thoroughly, and the starches and carbohydrates mentioned are necessary values to the body. Cut down the portions, then and never take two starches or two carbohydrate dishes at the same meal. For example, if potatoes are served, be certain you do not have wheat bread or rice or cornstarch pudding with them. Use but one starchy vegetable at a time, and the same holds true of the carbohydrates, found mostly in desserts.

The system must be aided in ridding itself of the fatty tissue if it is to throw it off. Walking, tennis, golf or some other sport is advisable. But for pleasure, coupled with the added advantage of losing weight, I do not think there is any other exercise equal to dancing.

There may be a pathological disorder that needs correcting. This is what science has found about obesity in its researches during recent years. A small gland situated in the neck, sometimes the seat of the trouble. It is called the thyroid gland, and has been the cause of more surprisingly incurable cases of obesity than imagined.

Physicians say that if this little gland does not produce a sufficient secretion to take care of the system, the superfluous flesh will develop. In the other event, when the thyroid gland secretes too much, extreme emaciation will be the result. It is well, therefore, to consult your physician if you find that either in your case, after you have faithfully followed out the rules of diet and exercise for a reasonable length of time.

Question.—Kindly advise me how I can cure an oily scalp.

Answer.—Bathe the face with warm dry water every night before retiring. Do not use cold cream more than once a week and only then for clearing the skin, not for making it smooth. The face thoroughly of its soap. If the oil glands are overactive, the use of the lubricant, bathe the face with a solution made of a pint of warm water, a half teaspoonful of baking soda and a few drops of witch hazel. The soda will dry up the oil and the witch hazel will soothe the skin.

Question.—Can you recommend a good powder for chafing? I should like one pure enough to be able to use on my baby, too.

Answer.—Stearate of zinc is excellent. It is also very reasonable in price. There is also Fuller's earth, a little coarser, but equally good. The parts to be treated are washed in cold water and thoroughly dried. Then the powder is dusted over lightly.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To prevent cakes, pies and puddings from scorched, place a disk of water in the oven.

Two clean lamp burners and wicks boil in soda water, then wash and dry and they will be nice and new.

When making tea add a lump of butter to the water. It will keep the fat from the water.

When cooking green vegetables add a crust of bread to the water. This will prevent the unpleasant odor.

Mattings will lie much more smoothly if a little linseed oil is rubbed down, as is frequently done.

PROCEDURE AT THE POLLING BOOTHS ON ELECTION DAY

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—In a general election there are a number of new voters who have not exercised their franchise, there is usually more than one voter in the family, and the procedure to be followed on their arrival at a polling place, in order that their ballots may not be wasted. For that reason and in view of the fact that the law does not require that voters be given a great number of women who have never previously marked a ballot, it is perhaps fitting to describe what is necessary on the part of the voter who presents himself here at a polling place to vote for the candidate of his or her choice.

It is important to remember that in urban polling districts the voters who are included in the list of voters on polling day. The procedure by which names may be placed on the list, or other names struck off, has already been explained. In rural districts names may be added to the list on polling day where the requirements of the Act are complied with, that is the candidate's name may be sworn and must be vouched for by someone whose name is on the list.

The wrong Christian name or the misspelling of a voter's surname, or the wrong designation, or the wrong number of the voter's list or property are not sufficient to justify the returning officer in refusing that voter a ballot, as long as the voter can swear that he or she is the person designated on the list. If a voter has been permitted, that is, someone else has voted by claiming to be the voter in question, that voter may still obtain a ballot on taking the oath that he is the person properly entitled to vote.

If a voter swears his ballot he is entitled to receive a new one, the spoiled ballot being destroyed and the deputy returning officer making a note of it. If a voter cannot understand English he is entitled to have an interpreter sworn to explain the ballot, and to him. If a voter, however, once refuses to take the oath, he cannot again be admitted to vote. In this case the deputy returning officer is required to enter in the poll book the notation, "refused to be sworn."

Once a voter receives a ballot from the deputy returning officer he has a right to use it, whether he has been sworn or not, and cannot be sworn once he has got the ballot.

Once the ballot has been received it is important to remember that the following methods of marking ballots are good:

- (1) With a proper cross with a black pencil on any part of the white space containing the name of the candidate.
- (2) An irregular mark in the figure in the nature of a cross, so long as it does not lose the form of a cross, and the lines cross at any point.
- (3) With an ill-formed cross or with small lines at the end of a cross, or with a line across the center of one of the lines of the cross, or with a curved line like the blades of an anchor.
- (4) An irregular mark in the figure of a cross, so long as it does not lose the form of a cross.

- (1) A cross with a line before it.
- (2) A cross righted through with two additional crosses, one across the candidate's name and the other to the left.
- (3) A double cross or two crosses.
- (4) Ballot paper inadvertently torn.

(5) Indifferent remarks in addition to the cross.

However, while all these markings are good, and will not result in the ballot being rejected, it is much safer and simpler to mark the ballot paper with an unmistakable cross opposite the name of the candidate for whom the voter wishes to vote.

Ballots are had which are marked as follows, it is pointed out by an authority in the Election Act:

- (1) A single stroke instead of a cross.
- (2) Two single strokes not crossing.
- (3) A ballot with the candidate's name written therein in addition to the cross.
- (4) Ballots marked with a number of lines.
- (5) Ballots with a cross for each candidate.

(6) All ballots on which there is any writing or mark by which the voter can be identified.

The procedure for the voter to follow on reaching the polling station is simple. At the door of the station his or her name will be checked on the list by one of the agents posted there.

Then on entering the voter must give his or her address to the deputy returning officer or poll clerk, who will run through the list and see that the voter's name and the other to the left.

GOT TWO DOLLARS?

Where can you get such value for this amount? Can you think of any preparation on the market today that will give you such genuine satisfaction for the amount expended as "JUSS" will do?

We grant that two dollars is a big price for a hair tonic, but would you not rather pay the price and get something of real merit than go out and pay a dollar for a bottle of perfumed water or hair cream? You'll agree that "JUSS" is the more economical in the long run.

"JUSS" (Harrison's special hair tonic and dandruff eradicator), is made from costly drugs. We bring one of the fluid extracts used in its manufacture all the way from South America. Then, again, remember that "JUSS" is largely composed of pure grain alcohol, and pure alcohol is a costly article these days.

It makes us smile to hear the arguments put forth by some hair tonic manufacturers as a selling point; they'll tell you that their preparation contains no alcohol whatever. Of course it doesn't—alcohol costs twenty-four dollars a gallon.

All Macleod drugists sell "JUSS." Have you tried it yet? $2.00 per bottle (a month's treatment).

Forethought or looking ahead is disobeying the Scriptural injunction to take no thought for tomorrow. But in this world we have to do it. The father takes out a life insurance to provide for what may be necessary for his family in case of death. The mother of a family also is constantly planning ahead to make the monthly wage of her husband last for another 30 days—till next pay day. Nations have to plan ahead—days, weeks, months and years. The plover and squirrel lay up a store of nuts or corn for future emergencies. So it is in every walk of life. Christmas and New Years is coming. You all have to plan for their advent. Don't leave off buying presents till the last day or week. If you see a suitable thing, get it and pay the merchant, or ask him to hold it for you. Then when the time comes, you can give it to the parties you want to surprise. By doing this and saving your money you won't be flustered into hasty buying at the last moment. You will then be able to give a more suitable gift with the money you have saved by taking forethought for the occasion. We have many things suitable for these hard times. You can get an aluminum set—any of our customers can get one—at manufacturer's cost. Then we have a nice lot of stationery in fancy cartons. What more useful for a present? Then our display of Ladies' Handbags and Pocketbooks will be an inducement to the most niggardly giver. Men's Ties, Handkerchiefs and dozens of other attractions for hard times. God loves a cheerful giver, and human beings take after Him.

Land," especially this time of year, although he says, according to the outlook, there are great possibilities in the northern country.

We congratulate Col. Selwyn Metcalf on his promotion. Col. Metcalf is in charge of the artillery, and, needless to say, no one is more deserving of this honor than the colonel. He served overseas for several years with the G. F. A. and earned his commission on the field. He organized and formed a battery in Macleod, which ranked first in shooting and general maneuvers at the camps at Calgary and Lethbridge.

News has been received here to the effect that the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hovis of the Kootenay was destroyed by fire on the night of Nov. 4. The fire occurred about midnight, the inmates escaping in their night clothes. The house and furniture was owned by Mr. Canary, and we understand carried a light insurance. We believe the personal property of the occupants, which included a number of valuable wedding presents and other articles, was a total loss. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hovis in this district sympathize with them in their misfortune.
